Public to Assist Salvation Army in Fund Distribution

Plan of Advisory Committee, Now in Operation in Several Cities, To Be Given Nation-Wide Scope

Plans of the Salvation Army for the coming year, announced yesterday, differ materially from those of the past.

The general public is to have a hand in the disbursement of funds raised by the organization. Local committees are being formed in virtually every large city in the United States composed of laymen, who will consult with the local Salvation Army officials as to needs of individual communities in which they operate. The plan already has been in operation for some time in certain cities. It is so successful that its use is to be made nation-wide.

These local advisory committees will be made up of fifty or more representative men and women of various callings. They will cooperate for the expansion of army work.

Reports for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1920, show that the Salvation Army, exclusive of children's homes, furnished 3,599,505 meals, 2,496,955 beds and provided accommodations for 90,030, the majority of whom were paupers. Temporary relief was afforded 956,181 persons. The report shows that 3,043,418 pounds of coal and 257,026 pounds of ice were distributed to the poor.

Exclusive of the jobs found directly within its own institutions, the organization placed in paying positions 52,219 men and 13,034 women, assisting also on discharge from prison 1,150 prisoners.

Rare English Antiques Go on Sale Next Week

A large and varied collection of English antique furnishings from the stock of Richard W. Lehn is on display at the Anderson Galleries and will be sold each afternoon during the week of March 28. The collection includes more than 1,000 objects of rare furniture, glassware, ship models, garden sculpture and tapestries.

Perhaps of greatest importance to collectors is the group of ship models gathered from various European sources. Of special note is a model of the man-of-war "Triumph," a ship designed by Sir Thomas Slade and launched in 1764, obtained from the Woolwich dock yard, England. Other models are from the Marine Museum of Cherbourg and were purchased when that museum was dismantled at the beginning of the war.

Another of the most important objects is a Brussels tapestry of seventeenth century Flemish manufacture after Teniers. It is entitled "Dutch Peasants Regaling," and shows a group of six figures against a landscape background. The signed work of Daniel Leysnier, it was formerly a part of the Earl of Mortimer's collection, and is considered as fine as any museum tapestry.

A dinner set of Lowestoft china from Hamilton Palace, Scotland, is another rare feature of the collection. It is of ninety-two pieces, including twelve large flat plates, twelve trenchers and all adorned with the green and gold coat-of-arms of the Duke of Hamilton.

The collection contains also a variety of chairs and sofas of the Queen Anne and Bohemian manufacture, also are presented.
